Sport for Good Ambassadors Rhys McClenaghan and Kerry O'Flaherty, with Gordon Cruikshanks, Regional Managing Director at Lidl Northern Ireland.

Lidl Sport for Good Schools Programme is now open for applications!

Lidl Northern Ireland's Sport for Good programme is back for its sixth year.

Supported by the Youth Sport Trust, the Lidl Sport for Good Schools Programme helps secondary schools improve young people's mental wellbeing, physical activity and leadership skills through the power of sport. In 2025, 95% of teachers reported a real boost in student resilience, and more than 80% of pupils felt closer to their peers after taking part.

Participating schools get hands-on mental health workshops led by Olympic icons including Olympic steeplechaser, Kerry O'Flaherty.

Every selected school gets £1,000 worth of brand-new sports equipment.

Join the thousands of children who have taken part in the Lidl Sport for Good Programme and apply now on the Youth Sport Trust website by September 25th 2026.
