WWF and Lidl: New Global Partnership

The choices we make today shape the world of tomorrow. That's why Lidl is partnering with WWF to help address some of our planet's biggest challenges today – climate change and nature loss. Together, we're working to provide you with more sustainable, healthy and delicious choices every day.

Tackling climate change

From farm to store to your table, we are committed to reducing our climate impact and emissions by setting and pursuing ambitious science-based targets

Easy, healthy and sustainable choices

Healthy and sustainable eating can be both delicious and good for the planet. Therefore, we'll increase our range of plant-based foods like vegetables, legumes and alternatives to dairy and meat

Supporting habitat projects

Healthy ecosystems are vital for a healthy planet. We're proud to support WWF conservation projects that restore these critical habitats, helping to ensure a better future for biodiversity and communities alike

Sourcing with care for people and nature

We're working towards responsibly sourced raw materials like coffee, cocoa, tea, pulp, paper, palm oil and soy because we want you to savour every sip and bite

Giving resources a second life

We aim to minimise waste through promoting a circular economy and using recyclable materials. Through these efforts, we're able to give materials a second life

Helping nature thrive

To support our planet's amazing biodiversity, we're identifying, tackling and addressing environmental risks along our value chains to reduce our impact on nature

Every drop counts

Water plays an important role in every step of our production. We will continue to identify water-related risks and set ambitious targets to ensure this vital resource is preserved for generations to come

Less waste, more to enjoy

Did you know that more than a third of food is wasted globally? We are working on identifying reasons for food waste and will develop strategies to minimize food waste in production processes and at a store level
